

Emergency Exit Only

Emergency Exit Gates allow customers to immediately evacuate from the subway system if there is an emergency.

When the gate is opened, an alarm sounds to alert the station agent who can notify the police or emergency services.

For non-emergency circumstances, station personnel may activate these gates to assist customers with strollers, carts or other bulky items. Customers should inform the station agent if they need assistance.

Improper use of the Emergency Exit Gates can result in arrest and criminal prosecution or the imposition of civil penalties.
